Program presented by: Gary Klein, Gary Klein & Associates

Every day, across the United States, millions of gallons of water and millions of BTUs of energy are lost in our hot-water systems through a combination of structural and behavioral waste.

Ours is an era where efforts to conserve resources have led to ever-increasing complexity, be it in Water heaters that are harder to understand and use, be it in the smart grid and electric meters that tell the utility all about our behavior.

Gary Klein is tackling this issue in a different way, rejecting complexity and concentrating on elegant simplicity. He works to change building codes and to get architects and builders to use plumbing systems that, by their design, deliver hot water quickly and with minimal waste.
