IAPMO Meeting Thursday April 24, 2014

“Federally Mandated Efficiency Improvements - Residential Water Heaters”

Steve Miller, The Marketing Pros, will tell the chapter that with these new 2015 standards a water heater might not fit into the same space as the current model.

Why? The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) regulates the minimum energy efficiency requirements for certain appliances, including water heaters.

This legislative directive, the National Appliance Energy Conservation Act (NAECA), first regulated water heater efficiency in 1990, and was updated in 2004 to the current levels.

A new update to the rule to increase minimum efficiency standards was enacted in April 2010, and is effective on April 16, 2015.

The lunch is $20.00, non-members, company employees, guests are always invited. Please RSVP to Bill Laub by Tuesday, April 22, 2014. If you RSVP and get on Bill's list you get one free raffle ticket.
